WEST GREENWICH, RI — Republican Attorney General candidate Alan Gordon has signed and notarized an affidavit raising concerns about Rhode Island General Treasurer James Diossa's reported communications with Raisa Gonzalez, whose 19-year-old daughter, Nayasia "Ny-Ny" Gonzalez, was killed in Central Falls in November 2025.

Gordon is requesting an independent review of whether an offer of Treasury assistance was connected to efforts to influence Gonzalez's proposed candidacy for Mayor of Central Falls or her public criticism of the handling of her daughter's case.

According to the account Gonzalez provided to Gordon, Diossa contacted her in February 2026 amid her dispute with Central Falls Mayor Maria Rivera and offered assistance through the Treasurer's office. Gonzalez also reported that Diossa subsequently stopped responding to her.

Gordon is asking that the full communications be examined to establish what assistance was offered, whether any conditions were attached, and why contact ended. Rhode Island Treasury administers a Crime Victim Compensation Program; the question Gordon raises is whether assistance was linked to a request for political silence.

Addressing the timing of his statement during an election campaign, Gordon says he acted promptly after learning of Gonzalez's account. He recalls that he was arrested on felony cannabis charges in October 2018 while running against Peter Neronha in a two-candidate race for Attorney General. Those charges were later dismissed without a conviction. Gordon maintains that the charges were false and states that not one Rhode Island pundit or politician raised a concern about the timing of his arrest during that election campaign.

Gordon has publicly endorsed Micholas Credle, Diossa's Republican opponent for Treasurer, and acknowledges his personal and religious affinity for the Gonzalez family. He is requesting review by an appropriate authority independent of the officials whose conduct is questioned, with consideration of the complete records and any response from Diossa or his office.
