

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

GORDON THANKS SEAT OF WISDOM FOUNDATION FOR ADVANCING WOMEN'S WEALTH INITIATIVE

Candidate says scholarly outreach will continue after the election because "great ideas last longer than the silly season"

WEST GREENWICH, RI - Rhode Island Attorney General candidate Alan Gordon today thanked the Seat of Wisdom Foundation for helping promulgate and encourage serious discussion of the Women's Wealth Building Initiative, a proposal intended to recognize the enormous economic value created by women through pregnancy, childbirth, caregiving, and family formation.

As part of that effort, the Seat of Wisdom Foundation reached out to women scholars and academics in economics, public policy, family studies, wealth inequality, and related disciplines, inviting them to examine the proposal critically and offer their expertise.

The outreach produced responses, and Gordon said the campaign and the Foundation intend to follow up with those scholars after the November election.

"I want to thank the Seat of Wisdom Foundation for taking a good idea beyond the boundaries of an election campaign and putting it before people who have spent their professional lives thinking seriously about women, families, economics and wealth," Gordon said. "We did receive responses, and we intend to continue those conversations after the election. Great ideas last longer than the silly season."

The Women's Wealth Building Initiative begins with a simple economic proposition: pregnancy, childbirth and the early work of raising children create substantial value for families and society, while much of the physical and economic cost is borne disproportionately by women.

The initiative explores ways of recognizing that contribution as an economic asset rather than treating it as invisible labor.

"If an idea is worth pursuing, it should be strong enough to be questioned, refined and improved," Gordon said. "The goal was never to find people who would simply agree with us. The goal was to invite intelligent women with relevant expertise into the conversation."

"Campaigns end. The questions facing women and families do not," Gordon said. "Whatever happens on Election Day, this is a conversation worth continuing."

Breaking the Curse of Generational Poverty

READ THE COMPLETE 7-PAGE PROPOSAL | Explore the initiative

MEDIA CONTACT Alan Gordon for Attorney General | AlanGordonRI.com

###